

Addendum to Report of Investigation
James W. White, Respondent
PDC Case No. 01-184

List of City of Kent Employees Obtained by Jim White Campaign

Edna White, spouse of Mayor James W. White, managed her husband's 2001 re-election campaign for Mayor of Kent. She planned her husband's campaign kickoff event for February 1, 2001. Mayor White told Edna White about an invitation list that had been created for the Sound Transit station opening in the City of Kent in February, 2001. Ms. White asked for and received a copy of the list from the Mayor's Executive Assistant, Jan Banister. The list contained 300 names, including 45 city of Kent employees. Ms. White said she did not show the list to her husband after she obtained it or ask him if there were names she should not use. Ms. White said she was aware that some of people on the list were city employees because their addresses were the same as city hall. Ms. White said she did not know it was wrong to send the invitations to city employees. Ms. White said she thought of the invitation as an announcement of her husband's re-election campaign rather than a solicitation for campaign contributions, even though contribution envelopes were included with the invitations.

The Mayor's office made city employees aware that they were welcome to attend the Sound Transit station opening. Employees who expressed an interest in attending the event were placed on the invitation list. Ms. Banister said she organized and set up many meetings during the Sound Transit project. She said she created the list to have approximately 300 people at the Sound Transit celebration. Ms. Banister said she knew which employees had been involved in the project and put them on the list, in addition to the employees who asked to be on the list.

Most of the employees on the list were supervisors, managers, or coordinators in various city departments such as Parks, Finance, Public Works, Employee Services, Fire, Information Technology, Community Development, Police, and Administration. (See Exhibit A) Ms. Banister said none of the city employees on the list report directly to Mayor White. They report to their respective department heads.

Mike Martin is the city's Chief Administrative Officer. The various department heads report to Mr. Martin, and Mr. Martin reports directly to Mayor White. Regular meetings are held with the Mayor, the Chief Administrative Officer, and the department heads. (See Exhibit B)

Respectfully Submitted this 16th day of November, 2001.
